Why You Should Be Hot and Bothered About 'Climate-gate'

By John Lott - FOXNews.com

A coordinated campaign to hide scientific information about climate change appears unprecedented. Could it wind up costing us trillions?

The climatologists at the center of the leaked email and document scandal have taken the line that it is all much ado about nothing. Yes, the wording of their messages was unfortunate, but they insist this in no way undermines the underlying science. They're ignoring the damage they've done to public confidence in the arbiters of climate science.

Email Scandal Rocks The Climate World:

Dr. Phil Jones, the head of the Climate Research Unit at the University of East Anglia, UK; in emails to Professor Michael Mann (Pennsylvania State University) :

- "Trick of adding in the real temps to each series...to hide the decline [in temperature]."
- "If they ever hear there is a Freedom of Information Act now in the UK, I think I'll delete the file rather than send to anyone."
- "Can you delete any e-mails you may have had with Keith re: [the IPCC's Fourth Assessment Report]?"

Dr. Kevin Trenberth, the head of the Climate Analysis Section at the National Center for Atmospheric Research

- "The fact is we can't account for the lack of warming at the moment and it is a travesty that we can't."

Outraged!? You should be. Scientists are hiding the truth. Climate Change is not science, it is politics. Visit www.cfact.tv to find out more.
